Dear Mr. Williams:

Greetings from Focus on the Family! On behalf of our entire staff, I'd like to convey our sincere appreciation for your willingness to serve in our network of professional counselors who stand ready to assist our ministry's constituents. Being able to direct hurting folks to you for guidance allows us to offer the kind of personal care that lies at the heart of our efforts.

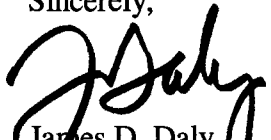

For over thirty years, Focus on the Family has been inspired to help struggling families with practical, biblically based advice related to marriage and parenting. Today, we are as committed as ever to that vision – and we're grateful that you've seen fit to partner with us in such a tangible way. Your own dedication to fostering marriages and godly parenting is a great asset to our mission.

The following testimony offers a glimpse into the kind of comments we often see in response to the vibrant outreach taking place across the country through therapists like you who assist those we send your way:

We'd like to share not only an update on the progress in our marriage, but also feedback on the recommendation you gave for a Christian counselor in our area. From the very moment we sat down at our first appointment, my wife and I both knew that this was the right person to help us. He is a fine man of high character, and his words obviously come from the heart. His effective approach to the problems in our marriage has put us back on track toward the positive relationship we had when we were dating. We both feel that this counselor is 'heaven sent,' along with all of the wonderful people in your organization. From the bottom of our hearts, thank you and God bless you.

Thank you once again for taking part in Focus's work. You are a valued partner to this ministry, and many lives have been positively impacted as a result of your wisdom and expertise. May the Lord continue to guide you as you bring His truth, love, and grace to bear upon the painful situations you address each day. God's blessings to you!

Sincerely,

James D. Daly
